Question		Answer
15	Under the new LOP regulation, can an LOP be granted in instances where the last day the ad was published is after the close of the competition for the teaching position?	No, as of June 30, 2008, every day that the ad appeared must be within 30 days before the close of the competition for the position.
16	Under the new LOP regulation, if an advertisement is posted on a website, is the posting date of the advertisement counted as one day out of the required 10 days?	As of June 30, 2008, when utilizing web advertising, boards must post their advertisement on a publicly accessible website approved by the Minister for a minimum of 10 days and not remove it before the closing date of the competition for the position. The posting date can count as one of the 10 days.
17	Under the new LOP regulation, does a newspaper or website advertisement have to appear for a certain number of days in a row ?	As of June 30, 2008, when utilizing newspaper advertising, boards must post their advertisement for at least three days, and at least one of those days must be within the five days before the closing date of the competition for the position. The ad does not need to be published three days in a row. When utilizing website advertising, boards must post their advertisement for at least 10 days, and the ad must not be removed before the closing date of the competition for the position. This means that the ad must be posted for at least 10 days in a row. It is common practice for ads to appear on-line for a certain block of time.
18	Under the new LOP regulation, can the closing date of the competition be counted as one of the days that the advertisement appeared in a newspaper or on a website?	Yes, as of June 30, 2008, the closing date of the competition can count as one of the required three days that newspaper ads must be posted or one of the required ten days that website ads must be posted.
Background Checks
19	Under the new LOP regulation, can a person who does not have a secondary school diploma be granted an LOP?	No, as of June 30, 2008, the individual the board proposes to hire under an LOP must hold an Ontario Secondary School Diploma, a Secondary School Graduation Diploma, a Secondary School Honour Graduation Diploma, or the equivalent.
20	In the new LOP regulation and the PPM, what is meant by "the equivalent" to an Ontario Secondary School Diploma, a Secondary School Graduation Diploma, or a Secondary School Honour Graduation Diploma?	This usually refers to a high school diploma from a jurisdiction other than Ontario.

Question		Answer
21	If someone has an Ontario College of Teachers number, can they be employed under an LOP?	No, an individual with an Ontario College of Teachers number may not be employed under the authority of an LOP. Anyone who is currently, or has ever been, a member of the College cannot be employed under the authority of an LOP. This restriction is set out in O. Regulation 298 (Operation of Schools – General), which is presently in effect, as well as the new LOP regulation, which comes into effect on June 30, 2008.
22	If someone is not in good standing with the Ontario College of Teachers or has an interim certificate of qualification, can they be employed under an LOP?	No, anyone who is currently or has ever been a member of the Ontario College of Teachers cannot be employed under the authority of an LOP. This restriction is set out in O. Regulation 298 (Operation of Schools – General), which is presently in effect, as well as the new LOP regulation, which comes into effect on June 30, 2008.
23	If a school board is planning to hire a new graduate who has not yet received his/her certificate from the Ontario College of Teachers, should the board apply for an LOP?	Yes, if the person is not a member of the Ontario College of Teachers and meets the other requirements set out in the regulation, he/she could be employed under the authority of an LOP.
Starting Date and Duration of Employment
24	Under the new LOP regulation, when is an LOP effective?	As of June 30, 2008, an LOP is effective as of the start date of the teaching position.
25	Why does PPM 147 state that an LOP cannot be granted for more than one year (i.e. 12 months), but then states that the ministry may grant an LOP for a period that extends beyond the end of a school year?	An LOP cannot be granted for a period that extends beyond one year (i.e. 12 months) because of the limit set in the Education Act . However, as of June 30, 2008, an LOP can be granted for a period that extends beyond the end of a school year in order to accommodate courses that do not conform to the school year calendar. The school year is defined in Regulation 304 under the Education Act as commencing on or after the 1st day of September and ending on or before the 30th day of June. For example, under the new LOP regulation, an LOP could be granted for a period that extends from April 9, 2009, to March 31, 2010.
Board Review
26	Why are school board staffing committees (or equivalent) asked to regularly review their usage of LOPs?	It is good practice for boards to review their usage of LOPs to ensure that teachers are hired under every possible circumstance.
